I. DEFINITIONS

“Chain of custody” means documented accountability for the custody of evidence from the moment it reaches the officer’s custody until the moment it is offered as evidence, or the knowledge or record of each person who has come into possession of a physical object from the time it is discovered until it is presented in a hearing.

“Contraband” means an article or thing that an offender under the jurisdiction of Probation or Parole is prohibited from obtaining, possessing, or exercising control over, either by statute, departmental policy and procedure, or special condition set by the releasing authority or special instruction of the officer.

“Dangerous instrument” is defined in KRS 500.080(3).

“Deadly weapon” is defined in KRS 500.080(4).

“Drug paraphernalia” is defined in KRS 218A.500(1).

“Reasonable suspicion” means a less stringent standard than probable cause, which requires that the authority acting be able to point to specific and articulable facts that, taken together with rational inferences from those facts, reasonably warrant a belief that a condition of probation or parole has been or is being violated.

“Search warrant” means an order signed by a judge or his designee, directing a law enforcement officer to conduct a search of a designated object, place or person, for the purpose of seizing designated property or kinds of property.

II. POLICY and PROCEDURE

A. An offender shall be subject to a search of his person, residence, or any other property under his control. The basis for any search shall be consent, a search warrant, or reasonable suspicion that the search will produce evidence of a violation of the offender's conditions of supervision. (3B-11)

- B. Any evidence confiscated from an offender shall be properly secured and the chain of custody shall be fully documented.
- C. If an officer conducts a warrantless search, a consent search, or a search pursuant to a warrant, he shall file an approved supervision report.
- D. Search Without Consent
 - 1. If an officer has reasonable suspicion to believe that an offender is in possession of contraband or in violation of the conditions of his supervision, the officer may conduct an investigation and search to validate the suspicion or information received. Each case shall be discussed with the District Supervisor or designee, if possible, before any action is taken by the officer and the purpose of the search articulated.
 - 2. Warrantless Search
 - a. If reasonable suspicion exists to believe that an offender is violating a condition of supervision or the officer has possession of evidence of a violation of the terms and conditions of his supervision, an officer may search without a warrant.
 - b. If exigent or emergency circumstances exist, an officer may search without a warrant. Exigent circumstances shall include the following:
 - (1) If delay may endanger the life of the officer or the lives of others;
 - (2) If there is a likelihood that the offender will escape if not swiftly apprehended;
 - (3) To prevent the imminent destruction of evidence; and
 - (4) When officers are in hot pursuit of a fleeing felon.
- E. Consent Search
 - 1. If an offender under the jurisdiction of the Department of Corrections gives his consent to the officer to search his property or person, it shall be considered a lawful and reasonable search if the consent is freely and voluntarily given. In these cases, the officer shall have the offender sign a statement giving his consent to the search, when practicable. If the offender refuses to sign the consent and circumstances support a warrantless search, the officer may proceed, but shall note this on a consent document and have that document witnessed by any third party present at the time.

2. Consent may be given to search a residence by a third party who possesses common authority over or other sufficient relationship to the premises or effects sought to be inspected. The scope of the search shall be limited to the area over which the consenting occupant has joint use or control.

F. Warrants

1. If time permits, the officer may obtain a warrant prior to searching an offender's residence or vehicle. In the absence of exigent circumstance or consent, if the search is based on probable cause to believe that a new crime has been committed and not because of reasonable suspicion that a condition of supervision has been violated, a warrant shall be obtained.
2. The officer shall follow the guidelines for obtaining a search warrant as set out in his judicial district.
3. The search warrant shall be executed without unnecessary delay. The officer shall obtain assistance from other Probation and Parole officers or local law enforcement officials. The officer shall not execute a search warrant alone.
4. If a search warrant is obtained, upon arrival at the designated location, the officer shall knock on the door, identify himself, state his purpose, and await refusal or silence before forcing entry into the premises. The officer shall show the occupants a copy of the search warrant if possible. A copy of the warrant and accompanying affidavits shall be present, prior to the search being conducted.

G. Pat Down Frisk

The officer may frisk an offender if there is reasonable suspicion to believe that the offender is concealing contraband on or about his person or where the officer has reason to believe the suspect is armed and dangerous.

H. Conducting the Search

1. The officer shall be accompanied by another Probation and Parole officer or a local law enforcement official for the purpose of conducting the search of an offender's residence, auto, or other property.

2. The search shall be conducted in a reasonable manner.
3. Only those areas occupied solely by the offender and those areas of common habitation may be searched.
4. If the offender is not the sole occupant of the residence or owner of the vehicle or other property, an effort shall be made to determine ownership before any property is removed.

I. Plain View Doctrine

Any object falling in plain view of an officer, who has the authority to be in a position to have that view, may be seized and used as evidence. The plain view doctrine may be applied to anything that an officer becomes aware of by use of his five senses while in a lawful position.
