- All persons who have been convicted of a felony in any court in this or any other state loses the right to vote and to hold public office. It is the prerogative of the Governor afforded him or her under the Kentucky Constitution to restore these rights.
- To be eligible for restoration of civil rights, applicants must have received a Final Discharge or their sentence must have expired, whichever is applicable. Applicants must not be under felony indictment, must not have pending charges or owe any outstanding restitution.
- Registering to vote prior to receiving restoration of civil rights is a violation of the law. This violation may impose a maximum penalty of five (5) years in prison.
- For those convicted in a federal or out-of-state court, you must provide a copy of the conviction/judgment of final sentence, verification of final discharge or expiration, and verification of ordered restitution has been paid in full.
- Per Executive Order 2015-871 issued on November 24, 2015, civil rights are automatically restored for certain felony offenders upon receipt of final discharge. Offenders who have previously been discharged from their sentence shall complete an application for eligibility review of automatic restoration of civil rights. Offenders who do not meet criteria for automatic restoration may submit an application for restoration of civil rights for consideration by the Governor's Office.
